

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SNAPPING TURTLES

"In July," said Mrs. Snapping Turtle, "I laid the eggs. I dug nice holes deep down in the ground—not so very deep down—but deep enough."

"Well," said Mr. Snapping Turtle, "which do you mean?"

"Do you mean deep down or not so very deep down?"

"I mean deep enough down but not too deep down," answered Mrs. Snapping Turtle.

"In fact I mean just what I say," said Mr. Snapping Turtle.

"That is one way of talking," said Mrs. Snapping Turtle.

"In fact, now that I think about it, I consider it a good way."

"No one can correct you if you talk that way, at least it would be hard for anyone to correct you."

"You tried to and failed," said Mrs. Snapping Turtle, "so now you understand."

"Yes," said Mr. Snapping Turtle, "and so you can tell other turtles who might inquire that you dug just deep enough."

"Turtles are pretty tame here in the zoo," said Mrs. Snapping Turtle.

"Many of the little turtles hatch out eggs, too."

"Little turtles hatch out other little turtles," laughed Mr. Snapping Turtle.

"That sounds funny. You have a way, Mrs. Snapping Turtle, of saying things so they don't mean much of anything."

"I didn't say it just as you quoted me," said Mrs. Snapping Turtle.

"Besides, if you stopped to think, Mr. Snapping Turtle," Mrs. Snapping Turtle said proudly, "you would know that that sentence I just spoke or uttered meant a great deal."

"In the zoo the turtles, small in size, are the ones who aren't too lazy to lay eggs and hatch them out."

"You're right. I'll admit it," said Mr. Snapping Turtle.

"Yes, you're a smart, quick turtle. No wonder you are called a snapping turtle."

"Of course I am, too."

"But I consider you deserve the name many more times over than I do."

"Thank you," said Mrs. Snapping Turtle, who considered this quite a compliment.

"It's lovely in our outdoor home," said Mr. Snapping Turtle.

"We've been very lucky for we've lived all summer long and each and every summer that we've been in the zoo."

"Of course now the weather is quite different, quite different."

"It changes—the weather does. It rains, too, sometimes. Really, I often wonder at times why people don't speak of snapping turtles, just as they do of snapping turtles."

"I've heard them sometimes say that the weather was quite snappy."

"But they should sometimes call the weather snapping weather. I give them this suggestion for their use if they want it."

"Ah, yes, it made us feel so well having a summer out-of-doors but now the Snapping Turtles must pay a consequence."

TILLSON.

Tillson, Jan. 30.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church held a quilting at the home of Mrs. D. L. Christian, Wednesday, January 27. There were twelve members present and at 12 o'clock a very fine chicken dinner was served.

Mrs. Richard Demarest is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Mrs. Ellen Kinney and daughter, Florence have gone to the city where they will spend the rest of the winter.

George Krempfer is very ill with pneumonia. Dr. Bush is attending him.

Mrs. Albert McMullen is improving at this writing.

The relatives and friends of Mrs. B. Merriew extend sympathy to the family in their bereavement in the death of their husband and father.

Mrs. Agnes Jan. is confined to her home by sickness.

The dramatic drama "The Challenge of the Cross" will be presented at the Tillson Reformed Church by a cast from the dramatic club of the Epworth League of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church of Kingston Thursday evening, February 4, at 8 o'clock. It may be correctly said that this entertainment is entirely different from any that has been given in this locality for some time. This drama while it contains entertaining and surprising features, does at the same time present a very powerful lesson concerning humanity's duty to God. It may be truthfully said that the girls who portray the leading message realize that they are giving something more than an entertainment and have put their hearts and souls into the great drama. The cast is supported by a choir, splendid lighting effects and scenery designed for the purpose of setting the present off in the best advantage.

The Challenge of the Cross will be supplemented by other entertainment features such as humorous recitations and songs. The cast is as follows:

Evangel, a messenger of God..... Frieda L. Hayes

Humanity Trudging Life's Highway..... Marie Hopper and Emma Hotelling

Dorothy Hyatt, Ruth Shader, Ruth Bell and Gladys Hopper.

The time is yesterday, today and tomorrow.

The place—Anywhere on the highway of life.

Red Seal Electric Home Opens Feb. 4

Equipped and Furnished by Electric League and Local Merchants—Entire Home Shows What Electricity Can Do.

On Friday afternoon, February 5, at 2:30 o'clock, the Kingston Red Seal home at 24 Emerson street will be opened for public inspection. For a period of two weeks, including Sundays, it will then be open daily without charge from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 7 to 9:30 p. m.

This model electrical home is being conducted by the Electric Service League of Kingston, in cooperation with the local merchants, to show the part Red Seal electric wiring plays in the modern home, making available all the possibilities of electric service for labor-saving, comfort and convenience, as well as for correct and attractive lighting. The home will be completely equipped with modern electrical devices and every room will be tastefully furnished—even to filling the linen closet with linens and the fruit cellar with groceries.

The wiring shown in this home is known as Red Seal wiring—which means that it conforms to a national standard for home installations, a standard which insures adequate and convenient service from electricity which can accomplish so much in modern home life if rightly utilized. The lighting throughout the house is of a lovely soft quality, giving plenty of light for the purpose required, yet arranged to protect the eyes from eye-strain and to add a glowing charm to the home.

While the Red Seal plan sets the minimum specifications necessary to achieve adequate electric service, it is also adaptable to individual needs and personal tastes. The Kingston Red Seal home has many unique and useful features, in addition to the minimum actually required to qualify as a Red Seal home. The door number will be illuminated, making it possible to see it at night. On the porch is a weather proof electric convenience outlet. It will make the use of the electric lawn mower possible and will prove useful in outdoor festivities for lighting the porch and lawn and attaching electrical appliances. Switches conveniently placed at every entrance throughout the house make it possible to throw a path of light ahead going from room to room and to turn off these lights without retracing steps. A pilot light indicates whether or not attic and basement lights have been left burning. A new type panel box with visible fuses and a circuit for nearly every room makes the blowing of a fuse a trifling incident. These are just a few of the many handy features of the Red Seal installation shown at the Kingston Red Seal home.

When it comes to household electrical appliances and other conveniences, the housework in the electrical home can be as well organized and as efficiently carried on as the work in a truly modern office with modern office equipment. There's no back-breaking drudgery to be done and the housewife will have time to enjoy this lovely home. An electric vacuum cleaner, dishwasher, washing machine, ironer, refrigerator and kitchen mixer are some of the more important major electrical appliances, while there are many cooking and heating devices throughout the house. Neither is the man of the house neglected. Besides the electrical lawn mower which gives him a chance to enjoy summer leisure, there is an electrical cigar lighter, battery charger, a vibrator, and electric razor, electric water heater for shaving and electrical aids for his tool bench.

At all times there will be a staff of guides on duty at the electrical home to explain to the visitors the important features and to answer any questions they may want to ask about the Red Seal installation and the appliances shown. These guides have all been selected and trained by Miss Margaret H. Bodkin, home service director for the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, who has also been largely responsible for furnishing the home attractively and according to the best practices for modern home-keeping. The guides who will assist Miss Bodkin are: Katherine Bailey, Florence Bailey, Angela DuBois, Nan Van Vliet, Wills Van Vliet. All of these girls except Miss Van Vliet have taken or are taking the home making course at the Kingston High School and their services were secured through the generous cooperation of Mr. Van Ingen, principal of the Kingston High School. Miss Van Vliet was recently associated with the Kingston Gas & Electric Company.

The Red Seal Home was initiated by the Electric Service League of Kingston, which is composed of the following membership: Roswell Cole, Tadocoff Brothers, A. W. Stall, C. Miller & Son, Canfield Supply Company, A. H. Clark, J. A. McNelis & Company, R. J. Harder, W. D. Hawk, M. M. Peck and the Kingston Gas & Electric Company.

The Kingston merchants who are giving their full cooperation in furnishing the home complete in every detail are:

Gregory & Company—Master bedroom and kitchen (partially) china, Wesley Gregory—Guest room and sewing room, Rose-German-Rose—Dining room and kitchen (partially) and linen, Stock & Cordis, Inc.—Living room, Walter A. McGuff & Co.—Drapes and linens, Safford & Scudder—Silver and vanity sets, Valentine Ruckenstein, Inc.—Flowers, L. S. Wingo & Co.—Electric lawn mower, Charles B. Everett—Groceries, Southard & Redmont—Oils and kerosene.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

HOW AURORA POST GOT NEW MEMBERS

"The biggest check in the world" was signed recently by Mayor Charles H. Greene of Aurora, Ill., in paying his dues to Roosevelt-Aurora post of the American Legion for 1926.

Equipped with a 4-foot pencil, Mayor Greene affixed his signature to a giant check measuring 24 feet long and 10 feet high. The check was signed in front of the city hall of Aurora before a large crowd, after which it was rolled up placed on a military caisson and conveyed to the bank where it was cashed. A parade, including the high-school band, soldiers, Legionnaires, and city officials, followed the check on its triumphant ride to the bank.

The event marked the opening of a phenomenally successful and unique membership campaign in which novel stunts and methods were the rule.

To locate prospects for the Legion the newspapers printed as complete a list of Aurora ex-service men as could be gathered and headed the list with a coupon to be clipped, on which was printed: "To Unknown Soldiers of Aurora—If you are not on the following list, sign your name and address and mail to the Legion Survey Committee." Nearly two complete pages of valuable newspaper space were given to the printing of the long list of known service men in the effort to locate the "unknowns."

The churches of the city co-operated with the Legion in locating "unknown soldiers." More than 1,000 undisclosed former service men were revealed to the membership committee through the agency of the churches.

Preceding these steps, a telephone campaign was conducted in which girls called every residence in the city in an effective effort to locate veterans.

Prospects who were not signed the first day were sent telegrams which were delivered by 30 boy scouts. Thus impressed by the urgency of the matter, and weakened by the "rust act," prospects signed on the spot.

An "Off-to-Paris Night" was a unique and much applauded feature of the campaign. A large street car float representing the Legion, with a full passenger list Paris bound, "sailed" through the streets of Aurora and anchored at the town armory, which for the occasion was designated as "Paris." There the Legionnaires disembarked and made merry in true Parisian style, regaling with a dance, girly-girly show and review.

A mutt dog parade through the main streets for the kids of the town with cash prizes for winners, was a stunt that put the words "American Legion" on all lips. The Forty and Eight, honor organization of the Legion, also put on their fun-making stunts in connection with their initiation ceremonies during the campaign.

Two Girls and One Boy Legion Essay Winners

Two girls and a boy were declared to be national winners in the annual essay contest conducted by the national Americanism commission of the American Legion for 1924-25.

Miss Elizabeth Shankland of Watseka, Ill., took first place among the 200,000 and more essayists who entered the competition. She won a scholarship of $750 to be used in her further education. She plans to take a course in music at Northwestern university. She has been teaching piano since she was twelve years old.

Second place, with a scholarship of $500, was won by Miss Gertrude Carter Stockard, whose home is on a 240-acre farm at the top of one of the most beautiful hills in the Ozarks, a mile and a half above the little village of Mountainburg, Ark. She has never attended school a day in her life.

Her mother, who was for fifteen years a teacher in the schools of Eureka Springs and Fort Smith, Ark., directed her sole instruction. She has been driving in to Fort Smith in the family car once a week, when the roads are not too muddy, to study music at one of the best studios in the Southwest. She plans to continue her music at the School of Applied Arts in New York city, while she works on the bachelor of arts and bachelor of education degrees at Columbia university.

Earle A. Tompkins, now a freshman at Massachusetts Agricultural college, won the third prize of $250. His home is at Easthampton, Mass. He plans a business career.

The essays dealt with reasons why the Legion, as an organization of World war veterans, is concerned with upholding and defending the Constitution of the United States, as Legionnaires by their constitution are pledged to do.

Radio Was Popular

Millions of people throughout the country listened in on national specialties and news of the national convention of the American Legion at Omaha, two thousand individuals appeared before the microphone of station WOA, which was on the air continuously from 8:35 a. m. to 11 p. m.

"All Dressed Up"

"Gild tags" means military uniforms. Sunday clothes. This expression grew up when "gild" still had the old meaning of bright, shiny or gay in color. "Gild" in this expression of course, is used in the popular sense of any clothes. Exchange.

BEEKEEPERS' SCHOOL SUCCESS AT CORNELL

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Nearly seventy beekeepers from all parts of New York state have been registered in a short course at the State College of Agriculture here during this week.

They began arriving Monday morning, January 25, and are leaving today. During the six days they have followed through the whole year in the apiculture, discussing all phases of the work in the different seasons, and have completely covered the subject of bee diseases.

One of the features of the week was the address of Dallas Lore Sharp on "The Spirit of the Bee." Prof. Sharp, who formerly taught at Boston University, spoke of the philosophical and sociological aspect of the life of a colony of bees. He is a practical beekeeper of many years' experience.

Much time and attention was given to American foulbrood and its control. Disinfection of combs was demonstrated, and the men attending the school had the opportunity to see at first hand the methods for combating this disease.

Honey advertising and marketing were discussed, and E. H. Root, president of the A. I. Root Company of Medina, Ohio, spoke on "Getting Honey Before the Public." Mr. Root said that was the main problem and that when the public really begins to eat honey and appreciate the uses of it, there will be no stopping the demand.

The wintering of bees, outdoors and in cellars, was discussed by E. F. Phillips, professor of apiculture at Cornell, and G. H. Root, apiculture specialist from Penn State. Favorable points were advanced for both methods, and the speakers left the decision largely to individual owners and conditions, which should determine the procedure.

The Art of Life

We live on a surface, and the true art of life is to make well on them. Under the oldest, most ancient civilizations a man of nature force grows just as well as in the newest world, and that by skill of handling and treatment. He can take hold anywhere. Life itself is a mixture of power and form and will bear the least stress of either. To finish the answer, to find the purpose and in every step of the journey, in the constant number of good hours, is wisdom. Emerson.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 30, 1926.

SOLOMON'S JUDGMENT.

It seems that the Detroit judge decided in favor of the woman who wept when he resorted to a modernized adaptation of King Solomon's plan. Two women having come before the Detroit court, both claiming rightful custody of an orphan child, the judge, after consideration, abruptly told them that neither should have it and it would be placed in an institution. Then he signaled a ready motion picture operator to "shoot," the result showing one woman in tears and the other apparently unmoved. After studying the pictures, the judge has decided that the woman in tears had a better right and will be the better custodian of the child. His judgment may be wise, and it may not. The tears may prove little more than that one woman had less of a grip on her lachrymal ducts, and that the other was possessed of more self-control. And the tearful woman may have thought an institution a terrible place for a little child, while the other, less imaginative or less read up on the callousness of the guardians in an institution, may not have experienced the same poignant alarm.

King Solomon's method was more certain of decisive or convincing results. Any real mother would surrender her child rather than have it cut in two parts with a sword before her eyes, while the false claimant might not even protest against a fearful judgment sent to bring lasting grief upon her hated rival. The test applied by Solomon the Wise has been accepted as effective and trustworthy throughout many centuries, but the Detroit judge's adaptation of it, for the reasons suggested, is not necessarily decisive.

DOOM OF THE WILD HORSE.

It is with somewhat of a shock that one reads that the wild horse of the Western plains is to be deliberately exterminated, but it is true that he has become a burden to himself as well as a nuisance to the country, there is less humanity in the undertaking than at first might be supposed. It is stated that the millions of more mustangs and pintos running wild in several for Western states, consuming grass needed for more useful animals, are utterly unable to care for themselves in severe seasons, and that this justifies the campaign of extermination begun by government officials.

There is noble blood in the veins of many of these wild mustangs, according to the Portland Oregonian, which says in part: "The beginning of the wild bands of horses now being hunted on the Western plains can be traced with no great difficulty to the proud Arab stock brought to America by the earliest Spanish explorers, and their claim to distinguished lineage is not vitiated by the circumstance that many of them are the product of ancestors who have known white American ownership in their time."

Capturing, breaking and domesticating these wild steeds was a profitable employment for generations, but presumably it no longer pays to do this in a motor-car age which has vastly limited the demand for horses. If the wild mustang of the West were capable of reflection, he would recognize his doom in the arrival of the cheap automobile.

Most Americans would regard membership in the Three-Hours-for-Lunch Club as a shameful excuse for loafing. Worthy of more consideration is the suggestion of Dr. Roy Upham, president of the International Association of Homoeopathic Doctors, although his position is rather extreme, when he says: "The Europeans, with their two-hour lunch periods, are cultivating a thirty minutes or an hour is not sufficient for eating a meal. We devote ourselves into thinking we are living in the best age, but we dash to a soda fountain, grab up a sandwich, wash it down with a drink, and rush back to business and conference."

Instead of pouring oil on the troubled waters in which the leaders of the Women's National Party are helplessly swimming, the President wisely added to the excitement when he ventured to include in his pacific utterances the assertion that "women can never escape the responsibility of home and children and the working woman a mother and potential mother chafes at universal interference." This is simply maddening to the women who demand and are determined to secure for their sex just as heavy manual labor and just as many hours of it as men can struggle through.

After publishing the "Kautski Documents" showing the responsibility of their Imperial government for the war, it is absurd for the Germans to keep on complaining that they were compelled to admit their country's guilt when required to sign the Versailles treaty. After being forced to do it, they did it themselves voluntarily.

SLEEP.

In searching around for the cause of sleep someone suggests that it is due to something that drugs or poisons the will or control of the individual, just as does an anesthetic given before an operation is performed. This might be poisons from mental or physical exertion. Another suggestion is that there is something that draws the blood from the brain, hence the will stops work, and so unconsciousness or sleep ensues.

Some of the things noted about natural sleep are that the pulse rate decreases and the blood pressure also. And further that it takes nearly four hours or rather it is the fourth hour after sleep begins, that the pulse rate and the blood pressure are at the lowest point. There is a slight rise in pulse and pressure just before waking and an abrupt rise after waking, to a point equal to the first hour of sleep. Thus although we seem to be very sound asleep during the first hours, nevertheless the pulse and pressure do not quiet down suddenly, but really gradually, to the fourth hour.

Another investigator has been able to show that there is a difference between sound sleep with the lowering of the pulse and pressure, and disturbed sleep and dreaming, which may be accompanied by a marked increase in pulse and pressure.

This means then that when you dream there is not the complete loss of control as it were, that your mind, your will, your consciousness is not entirely blank.

As I tried to express it once before, real sound healthful sleep is like taking your battery out of your car, thus not calling on it to do any work and attaching it to the power supply where it can be recharged with electricity.

Where you are not getting sound sleep, where you are dreaming or having a night mare, it is something like trying to have your battery recharged and having it do a little work besides. The recharging can't be perfect. Most of us can stand the amount of dreaming we do. It doesn't seem to do us any harm, but in high strung nervous individuals, you can see what disturbed sleep may mean to their health, and also what a real refreshing dreamless sleep may likewise mean.

Origin of Halloween

Halloween, or All Hallow's eve, is the name given to the 31st of October as the vigil of All Saints or All Saints day. Though now known as little else but the eve of the Christian festival, Halloween and its formerly attendant ceremonies long antedate Christianity. The two chief characteristics of ancient Halloween were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that of all nights in the year this is the one during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad. About the first of November the Druids held their autumn festival and lighted fires in honor of the Sun god in thanksgiving for the harvest. The Druids also believed that on the eve of this festival Saman, lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the past twelve months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. On the third of November some of the chief ceremonies of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona held about the 1st of November, in which nuts and apples, as representing the winter store of fruits, played an important part.

ONE RULE FOR HOME OR CAMP.

In the case of the People vs. Rodham Kenner, before the Caroline County (Va.) Committee of Safety, January 30, 1775.

"The Committee of the County of Caroline, adverse to rendering any person a public spectacle of contempt, except for a flagrant breach of the General Association and having once excused a certain Rodham Kenner, Of the said county for deviating from the rules prescribed by the Congress, now find themselves under the necessity of publishing to the world the infamous behavior of the said Kenner, who, forgetting the former clemency of this committee, has a second time violated the Association, by continuing to come unlawfully, and to entice others, first by making them drunk, to become partakers of his guilt. These circumstances being fully proved to the committee, they would be forgetful of their duty, if they did not advise the people of their own county in particular, and of the colony in general, to avoid all manner of dealings with the said Rodham Kenner, and to treat him in future as every enemy to American liberty deserves.

ANTHONY THORNTON,
Chairman pro tem
SAMUEL HAWES, JUN.,
Clerk."

Thus did civil law deal in Revolutionary days 150 years ago with men who held lightly their obligations as citizens of a country fighting for freedom. This ban on card playing and gambling in the home towns, was the exact counterpart of the military law of the army camp, as witness the following from Washington's Orderly Book:

"All officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers are positively forbid playing at cards and other games of chance. At this time of public distress, men may find enough to do in the service of their God and their country, without abandoning themselves to vice and immorality.

"As the season is now fast approaching, when every man must expect to be drawn into the field of action, it is highly important that he should prepare his mind, as well as everything else necessary for it. It is a noble cause we are engaged in; it is the cause of virtue and mankind; every temporal advantage and comfort to us and our posterity depends upon the vigor of our exertions, in short, freedom or slavery must be the result of our exertions; there can therefore be no greater inducement to men to behave well."

Civil law in the army camps or military law in the home towns, as you prefer to express it. They thought little of fine distinctions such as that in '76. This was a people's war in every sense, fought by citizen soldiers whether on the battlefields or at the country crossroads or in the village streets. (Copyright, 1926, by The Putnam Syndicate.)

Burning of Rubbish on Roads Endangers Autos

To protect the highways in Connecticut the state highway and police departments are prepared to prosecute persons burning leaves or rubbish or adjoining the state roads. Such practice also is deemed highly dangerous to automobile traffic.

Although the fires are started in the cuttings, it is pointed out, the heat from them is sufficient to draw the oils from the bituminous surface of the highway and cause a serious menace to public safety and an increased maintenance expense, inasmuch as manure is treated with asphalt, tar or other substances containing volatile oils which may be ignited easily.

Gas Tax for Roads

Gasoline taxes collected by the states yielded a revenue of $60,108,734 in the first half of 1925, of which $73,514,210 is applicable to road work according to a report by the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. Wisconsin collected $354,082. At the beginning of the year there were 13 states which did not have a gasoline tax. A tax is imposed in all states except Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York.

Landing of Savages

A farmer residing near Santa Ana, Cal., came into town one evening and declared that a shipload of copper-colored savages had landed at a nearby harbor and had constructed a crude fort 18 miles outside the village. He finally persuaded a group of citizens to accompany him to the spot to see for themselves. The man's declarations were true, but upon closer investigation the fort and camp were found to be the location for a motion picture company filming scenes.

Nutty Natural History
By HUGH HUTTON.

THE BUZZING WINE.

This beverage, brewed in foundry in eastern Brazil, is found only in two-by-four boxes that abound in the delta of the Amazon. In order to capture it, the natives set fire to a mixture of sawdust under the trees and force the wine to fly to another tree. By repeating the process, they soon force him to the edge of the two-by-four woods, and the next tree he lands on is one with ordinary round limbs. Having that fact that are only good for square limbs, the wine rolls off to the ground, and the natives are made into a kind of Waldorf salad.

The individual depicted here is an adult; the porcupine tailfeathers on the joints are not popping until they are six months old. The body is a Brazil nut and the head a Gilbert. Clothes will answer for the legs, and split almond kernels for the feet. The eyes are split nut beans. (Antipollution Newspaper Service.) (Monday—The Appalachian Oriole.)

Daily History Story Monday

Frederic A. Godcharles, the author of the series of "Today's Story in New York History," which will begin in The Freeman on February 1 and will appear each day for an entire year, was born in Northumberland, Pennsylvania, June 2, 1872, son of Charles A. and Elizabeth (Burke) Godcharles. At the age of four years he moved with his parents to Milton, Pa., where his father was the senior member of the mill factory. Mr. Godcharles has resided there since, and graduated from the public schools, May, 1888 and Lafayette College, June, 1893.

He worked through the various departments of the mill business until he became the president and general manager of the concern. For sixteen years he has owned and edited the Miltonian, established by General Henry Frick, in September, 1881. For four years he was interested in the publication of "The Morning Bulletin."

For many years, Mr. Godcharles has been called upon to deliver patriotic and historical addresses and has a more intimate knowledge of the history of every corner and out-of-the-way place.

He is a veteran of two wars, serving in the Spanish-American War of the staff of Brigadier General John P. S. Goffin and in the World's War on the staff of that greatest of American soldiers, Major General Leonard Wood.

Mr. Godcharles is an expert marksman and taught marksmanship to the soldiers. He has won many competitions with both rifle and shotgun and has represented Pennsylvania on its team at the National Rifle Matches no less than three times. He has taken a keen interest in athletic sports and has been an intercollegiate football official for thirty-seven consecutive years.

He is interested in patriotic and fraternal organizations and has taken an active part in the work of the political limelight since 1900, when he was elected to the General Assembly, then served in the State Senate. During the eight years of the administration of Governors Brumbaugh and Sproul he served as Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Godcharles has written on historical subjects for many years and possesses a library of much value. This series of day-by-day stories on historical subjects of New York written by one so much interested in the history of his country should prove to be of inestimable value and be the means of increasing the interest in the history of our great state.

BURBANK PRESENTS SEVEN NEW PLANTS TO THE WORLD

Noted Major Creations and Improvements Result of Year's Work by Famous Materialist.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—With the completion of one of the busiest years in his half century of work in the laboratory of nature, Luther Burbank presented to the world as a New Year gift a beautiful group of new flowers and plants.

The plant wizard announced that during the year just closed he had perfected seven major creations and improvements. Today he sent to all parts of the world seeds which will bear these new creations.

After 26 years of experimentation Mr. Burbank has created a new camassia, a striking blue flower. While the camassia is not widely known, the new product excels all others in its beauty and ability to multiply.

From his rainbow corn Burbank has produced the rainbow teosinte, a marvelous plant that grows eight feet tall and bears from 8 to 14 ears to each stalk.

Third is a new giant cactus flowering sinia, a truly giant plant developed from a more familiar flower.

Others are a new hybrid flower, a new species of the torch lily, which will bloom profusely in cold climates; a new and improved strain of the popular Shasta daisy, much larger and more colorful than the present Shasta; a new strain of fluffy giant asters, and the perfection of eight newly named gladioli.

The noted naturalist begins the new year in good health, and is looking forward to one of accomplishment.

"I can say that I am satisfied with my year's work," he told visitors at his experimental gardens, "for I must be satisfied. The year is done, and it has been one of my busiest. I have worked and enjoyed every day of it. But I will go on with the new year."

Old English Dances Are Being Revived

London.—There has been a sudden country-wide revival of the old English country dances, and a great all-England folk dance festival is ushering in the new year in the grand hall of London university, in South Kensington.

The revival is bringing the morris dance and the sword dance into their own again, says a report by the English Folk Dance society, which asserts these dances are being taken up with enthusiasm by tens of thousands of young people throughout England. The society is compelled to refuse hundreds of applications from would-be learners because of its inability to secure enough ballroom space.

Women are taking up sword dancing enthusiastically, many with the purpose of teaching it to boy scouts, girl guides and members of similar organizations.

Scottish reels are also regaining favor, mainly because of the partiality of the duchess of York for them, although the duchess herself will not be seen in the ballroom for the next few months because of the approach of an interesting family event.

Dig Up Skeleton 2,000 Years Old in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz.—The skeleton of a man, believed to have been a member of the race said by some archeologists to have inhabited this section of Arizona 2,000 years ago, was unearthed near the eastern city limits by a party of excavators working under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History.

Measurements of the skeleton indicate the man was about 5 feet 8 inches tall. Both Erick Smith, in charge of the excavating work, and Dr. O. A. Turner, Phoenix archeologist, said the man undoubtedly was a member of the race that was known as the "canal builders," who are believed to have constructed the first irrigation system in the Salt River valley. Traces of these canal systems still remain.

Belief was expressed that there were two rooms beneath the chamber in which the skeleton was found. Doctor Turner explained that it was the custom of this race to lay their dead in the floor of a room, cover it with earth, build a new floor and continue to live in the same dwelling.

Gold-Filled Elephant Tusk Found in Mining Claim

Seattle, Wash.—An authentic fossil tusk of the woolly elephant of the glacial or postglacial period, with gold fillings like a modern tooth, has been presented to the museum of the University of Washington by Edward Squires, who discovered it on a mining claim on Dominion creek, 40 miles from Dawson, Yukon territory.

The tusk is ten feet long and weighs 230 pounds. The theory of Nathan Kreege, museum caretaker and former Alaskan, is that the relic was there when tons of earth with pay streaks settled down, so that gold suggests were forced into the cracks of the tusk, giving the effect of modern gold tooth fillings.

It Worked

Louisville, Ky.—The burial of a woman, Mrs. June Lindenberg, who was buried and who is believed to be a victim of the "Honey Moon" murder, was held in the city of Louisville, Ky., on Saturday, Jan. 30, 1926.

War on Insect Pests

In furtherance of improved agricultural conditions, an entomologist on the Hawaiian board of agriculture has obtained from south China parasites to be used in warring against the destructive beetle, a destructive garden pest. Parasites imported into the territory in the last quarter of a century are credited with practical elimination of insect plagues attacking cane, pineapple and general crops. The gain in volume of Hawaii's crops in the last 15 years is attributed largely to freedom from destructive pests.

Colds Increase Earache Cases

Proper Care Necessary, Says State Health Department Official, If Person Would Avoid Complications Which May Result from Neglect.

Earache was the subject of a radio talk given from station WGY Friday night by Dr. William L. Munson, district state health officer. This was one of the regular weekly talks on health arranged by the State Department of Health.

Dr. Munson explained the anatomy of the ear and showed how an inflammation in the throat extends to the middle ear and how, if such a condition is not given proper medical attention, there may be a further extension of the inflammation from the ear to the brain with a probable fatal outcome.

"As the winter comes on colds become more frequent, due in a large majority of the cases to the fact that we forget that we need fresh air in winter as much as in the summer," stated Dr. Munson. "As a result of these colds the number of cases of earache is very much increased. Children are by far the greatest sufferers because they are the ones most liable to the common communicable diseases. This affliction in child life is one that everybody seems to think he can treat, whether or not he knows anything of the cause, the anatomy of the parts, or the possible complications that may arise."

The Eustachian Canal.

"If you are to understand earache and appreciate the seriousness of the condition you must know something of the anatomy involved. There is a little tube about an inch and a quarter in length called the Eustachian canal which leads from the upper part of the back of the throat to the middle ear. The function of this little tube is to equalize the air pressure on both sides of the ear-drum so that it may vibrate properly to sound waves. There is also a passage from this tiny middle ear-cavity to the mastoid cells which are enclosed in the bony prominence just back of the ear. The ear-drum is the outer wall of the middle ear and is the sound board which takes up the sound waves in hearing."

Effect of Sore Throat.

"When inflammation of the throat takes place it may frequently does travel up this tube to the middle ear where further infection takes place. Many times a little pus develops in the tiny middle ear chamber and by pressure causes excruciating pain. Ordinarily the ear-drum breaks to allow the escape of this pent up pus. The infection may travel along back from the middle ear to the mastoid cells and even may extend by direct contact to the brain coverings causing meningitis or brain abscess both of which are serious and highly fatal conditions. All infections of the throat luckily do not follow this route. Many times a sore throat may cause only a closing of the Eustachian tube by slight swelling which gives rise to a sense of fullness in the ears and head, some deafness for the time being and sometimes a peculiar clicking sound in the ears when the lower jaw is moved.

Other Cause—of Infection.

"Whether or not the infection is the so-called common sore throat or the most severe form of scarlet fever which results in disease to the middle ear, the mode of travel is the same. Any disease which may have inflammation of the throat during its course may be the cause of earache and mastoid disease. In this group are scarlet fever, which shows a great tendency to ear troubles, simple tonsillitis, measles, diphtheria and influenza."

"Large tonsils and adenoids or diseased tonsils which cause repeated sore throats are a common source of infection to the middle ear. Not infrequently the examination of children reveals the presence of a foreign body, such as a small bean or pea or some other small object or piece of material which the child may have found and stuffed into his ear. Unless these are promptly removed severe inflammation may result."

What Neglect May Mean.

"Beginning meningitis, which is a very serious disease, is the real diagnosis just often enough to show the folly and stupidity of not knowing the exact diagnosis in all cases suspected of earache. You may not be the best diagnostician in the world and your guess that the baby has earache may be wrong. A poor diagnosis on your part may be responsible for death from meningitis. Even if your diagnosis of earache be correct you are responsible for the future hearing of your child and you have no right to gamble on your treatment as being the best to preserve that hearing. Many times correct treatment given early prevents deafness and further complications. Commonly early puncture of the drum with properly administered irrigations is all that is necessary. Failure to have correct treatment may mean extension of the disease to the mastoid cells necessitating a severe operation or it may even mean extension to the coverings of the brain, and death from a condition which could have been easily corrected in the beginning. Failure of rational treatment may mean deafness of any degree as a result."

Consult Your Doctor.

"It has been handed down from ancient times that warm sweet oil dropped into the ear is the treatment par-excellence for earache. Nothing could be more wrong. The first essential is a correct diagnosis of the condition. This means an examination of the ear drum by the doctor and if he finds it bulging and red, indicating severe inflammation and pus, he will incise it and prescribe the proper irrigations. Children with earache should not be allowed to go until the drum 'breaks itself.' Such procedure subjects the little patient to many hours of unwarranted torment and suffering and no one knows how many cases of deafness result from this very unwise method of treating earache."

Don't guess—know.

Miss Slattery to Talk to Women

The Y. W. C. A. will conduct a mass meeting for girls and women at the St. James M. E. Church on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Miss Margaret Slattery, well known lecturer and writer, has been secured as the speaker for the occasion and she has announced that her subject will be "The Modern Merry-go-round."

The Schubert Choral Club will sing Gounod's "Unfold Ye Portals" from "The Redemption" and the offertory solo will be rendered by Miss Virginia Los Kamp.

All girls and women of Kingston and vicinity are cordially invited to attend this meeting and word has been received that there will be thirty girls coming from the Newburgh Y. W. C. A. and a large group from the association at Poughkeepsie.

The meeting will end promptly at 4:30 o'clock, so that it will in no way interfere with the five o'clock vesper services in the local churches.

FREE FORESTRY PRIMER FOR SEMI-CENTENNIAL

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 30.—The semi-centennial of forestry occurs this year. Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, calls attention to this fact and is celebrating the occasion by the publication of a book for free distribution written in a popular vein entitled "The Forestry Primer."

In 1876 a special agent was appointed by the Department of Agriculture to study forestry conditions in the United States. Since then the activities by private owners of forest land, by the state and the nation have increased rapidly. The necessity for the preservation of timber for ship-building was one of the first influences that brought Federal action. In 1879 Congress appropriated $200,000 for this purpose. In 1885 a Division of Forestry was created in the Department of Agriculture. The Forest Service did not come into existence until 1905. Until that time appropriations for forest conservation were small. The appropriations for the Forest Service in 1924 amounted to over 12 million dollars. In 1908 an intensive system for the protection of the forests against fire was established in New York state. Many steps in rapid succession followed on the part of states in the East, all looking toward forest protection, growing more forests and more careful use in logging and manufacturing of wood products.

Although the progress of forest conservation has been marked, the use and misuse of the forests has increased with greater rapidity. Records for 1924 show that there were 29 million acres of forest land burned over and only about 35 thousand acres planted with young trees. The disparity between construction and destruction of forest areas is a fair measure of the importance of the adoption of a complete plan for the conservation of this important resource by the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University.

Teach Your Children to Study the Ads

ONE of the finest things you ever can do for your children is to train them in the business of buying. All their lives they will be confronted with problems of personal, if not more complicated, investment. From early youth they should be prepared to meet these duties wisely.

Teach them to study the ads in this paper. Let them get all the joy they can from the "funnies," and we hope they will find much of interest in our news items and articles; but urge them to read the ads.

Newspaper advertisements are entertaining. They are instructive. They are inspirational. As they appeal to the child's imagination, they train his judgment and encourage his desire for the better things of life.

National Ass'n of Bus Owners

Bus Interests of Country Hold Conference at A. A. A. Headquarters and Take Important Steps Toward Permanent Organization of the Industry.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Important steps toward the permanent organization of the gigantic bus industry of the country were taken at the recent meeting in Washington of the governing board of the bus division of the American Automobile Association.

Tals was the first meeting of the board in its capacity as the governing authority of the bus division, which is to represent the bus interests of the country in the national field.

In addition to electing Ralph W. Sautern of Cleveland as chairman of the board, the meeting took up several of the most pressing issues confronting the bus operators of the country at the present time. The foremost place in the discussion was given to the pending legislation for the regulation of busses operating in interstate commerce.

An official legislative committee was appointed by the board to represent the bus interests of the nation in connection with the proposed regulatory legislation. This new committee will replace the unofficial committee that represented the bus operators during the early stages of the legislative discussion.

The board reviewed the Cummins bill, scheduled to come up for hearings about the middle of February. It decided on certain amendments which are considered necessary to protect more adequately the interests of the bus operators. The amendments recommended will be broadcast through the different state bus associations and will also be submitted to the legislative committees of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, the American Railway Association, and the American Electric Railway Association, together with a suggestion that an early conference be held between these organizations and the bus representatives in order to ascertain if an agreement can be reached before the hearings at the capitol commences.

It was decided by the board that a meeting of representatives of affiliated member associations be held as soon as determined by the various state associations which will be represented. The purpose of this meeting was to develop plans for the permanent organization of the bus division of the American Automobile Association and for direct representation in this organization by the various state associations. While the bus division in its affiliated member associations is at the present time nearly representative of all the state associations there are a few which need a little more time to complete their plans for affiliation. Among those states recently affiliated are Washington, Oregon, California, Michigan, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. It is expected that within the next two or three weeks the remaining associations will have taken the necessary action to become a part of the national organization.

The bus owners of Ulster county within the last week formed an association which is in line with the plan outlined in the foregoing announcement from Washington.

WE LOVE YOU

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

NOT to one girl only
I would write a rhyme,
But to all the lonely,
Anywhere or time—
Yes, to every maiden
From her man apart,
Every love leader
With a heavy heart.

But to those saunter,
Anytime or where,
What the word, I wonder,
That will lighten care?
Here's the day, the reason,
Why I send a line—
It's the happy season
Of St. Valentine.

Not to one girl only
I would write a rhyme,
But to all the lonely,
Anywhere or time—
Not to king or caddy
With a lance dear,
But to every laddie,
Anywhere or here.

Every maid among you,
How I hope you see
That the song that's sung you
Doesn't come from me—
Not one heart discovers,
Not one tale would tell,
But a million lovers
Send their love as well.

Man, wherever wending,
Please to understand
Not one maid is sending
Something from her hand;
But a million of them,
Just as fond and true,
Though a million love them,
Send their love to you.

It's a mighty greeting
Via Valentine,
Singing and repeating
All along the line:
Silk or rags arrayed in,
High or low your claim,
Here's to every maiden,
Here's to every man.

What the day or weather,
What the land or clime,
All of us together
Love you all the time.
All of us love only
You, and you, and you—
All of us are lonely
All of us are true!

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

AT 21—Former Governor Louis F. Hart of Washington listened patiently to the recitals of Unruly Youth.

WHEN I was twenty-one my position in life was not very exalted. I had to earn a living somehow, and teaching school seemed about as good a job as any other. So I taught school in the state of Missouri and listened to the recitals of unruly and impatient youth with what orderly patience I could muster. As this was over 20 years ago, I don't remember how far this good nature of mine extended. Maybe my pupils did love their teacher.

At the same time I was teaching I studied law. The gathering of this additional knowledge had to be done at night but since my ambition was to be a great figure in law I did not mind the extra work but welcomed it gladly.—Louis F. Hart.

TODAY—Mr. Hart's early ambition to become a great lawyer was turned aside, for although he got his A. B. from Harvard at twenty-one, he was called to the bar soon after; he did not practice for very long but went into the fire insurance business. In 1912, when he was only thirty-one, he was elected lieutenant governor of Washington and re-elected in 1916. Upon the death of Governor Lister, he became the chief executive, and when his term expired in 1921 he was re-elected for another four-year term. At the end of this period Governor Hart had the distinction of having been the head, or the vice-head, of the state of Washington for 13 consecutive years.

THE YOUNG LADY
ACROSS THE WAY

Mrs. C. Bettenhausen spent one day recently with Mrs. F. Jordan. Tuesday evening was greatly enjoyed at the home of M. C. Freer, it being his 55th birthday. His two sons, Robert and Rufus, and their families, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Deltz and son, Oral, and daughter, Leila, were present. After a bounteous chicken supper, cards and dominoes were played. At 11 o'clock all wished their father many more such happy birthdays and departed for their homes.

Miss Martha Weingarten, who graduated here, has started at high school, Kingston.

Mrs. L. Lasher, who suffered a severe attack of acute indigestion, is able to be about the house again.

Mrs. Ed. Booth had the misfortune to sprain her foot but is much improved at this writing.

Mrs. C. Purdy and son, Frederick, have taken the rooms of Mrs. C. Clark that were vacated by Mrs. E. Booth.

261 Mortgages and 302 Deeds Filed

During the month of January this year there were filed for record in the office of the Ulster county clerk 261 mortgages, releases, leases, rights of way and other transfers of realty. In January, 1925, there were 269 transfers filed for record and in January, 1924, the number was 238. The mortgages filed this month were 261, being 26 less than during January, 1925, when 286 were filed, and 120 less than in January, 1924, when the number filed for record was 381.

CURRENT OFFERINGS

AT THE THEATRES

"Cobra" is an ideal vehicle for that magnetic star Rudolph Valentino. It gives him opportunity to make love, to fight, to suffer and to win the hearts of his admirers, on and off the screen. "Cobra" is a modern story of strong love and sacrifice. Valentino is seen as an Italian Count who cannot resist the cobra quality in women.

The farrowest performances of the record-breaking musical comedy company "Honeycomb Town" will be given this evening at seven and nine. The play is one of the best of them all called "Don't Lie To Your Wife" and contains many musical numbers and laugh galore. The play is "Red Hot Tires," a big comedy feature with Monte Blue and Patsy Ruth Miller.

Richard Talmadge in "Tearing Through" is the feature attraction at the Auditorium Theatre this evening. This is a story with fight, love and comedy scenes.

Buck Jones in "Gold and the Girl" with five acts of vaudeville will be the attraction at the Orpheum Theatre this evening.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR

Y. M. AND Y. W. H. AMINSTRAL.

The minstrel which has been planned by the Y. M. and the Y. W. H. A. Associations for some time will be presented at the Orpheum Theatre on Tuesday evening, February 2. This vaudeville which is being presented by local amateurs will also be given on the following evening, Wednesday at the Orpheum Theatre.

Novelities of the latest origin will be introduced and many others that prove to make a show a success will also be rendered.

WEATHER OUTLOOK

FOR NEXT WEEK.

In Memoriam.

In memoriam of Gertrude Elmer, who died one year ago, January 21, 1925.

A loving one from us has gone. A voice we loved is still. A place is vacant in our home which never can be filled. Yes, we miss Gertrude. Friends may think the wound is healed.

But they little know the sorrow. That within our hearts is concealed. PARENTS, FATHER, SISTERS, BROTHER AND GRANDMOTHER.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 30.—Industrial stocks were active and strong in the short session of the market today. Local traction stocks and pool specialties were lighter. Oils declined fractionally.

New York Railways Certificate moved up to 12 1/2, completing a gain of about five points for the week. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit and Third Avenue also sold at peak prices.

United States Steel and the independent steel stocks displayed a firm tone, steel common moving up to 13 1/2 and American Steel Foundries to 42 1/2.

Allied Chemical, National Biscuit and other pool specialties advanced about two points. The rail and equipment were neglected, though Canadian Pacific, Reading and New York Central were slightly higher. St. Paul and New Haven made the best progress among the speculative rails. Radio Corporation advanced 1 1/2 to around 16.

Profit taking in all sections of the market put an end to the rally and the market was on the down grade in the closing period. Active oils like Marland and Standard of New Jersey declined about a point. Steel stocks and a few of the motors picked up near the close and the market was steady at the final gong.

Strength and activity of the local traction bonds featured the listed bond market today. Third Avenue adjustment 5's advanced about three points to 61 1/2, completing a gain of 16 points for the week. Interboro refunding 5's gained a point at 70 1/2 and the 7's of 32 rose two points to 91.

Friendship Put Above

Insistence on Rights

Our town is a world in miniature. I suppose. What's the word for what I want to say? A microcosm? I haven't the dictionary handy. We have in our small way the same emotions the county and the state and the republic and ultimately the world have in their several large ways. Well, here is a funny thing about our town:

We get angry about everything. We take sides about battleships, most of us would not know a battleship from a scout cruiser, but we get red about them. We scrap over the aviation quarrel. We had a terrible time over evolution. If the market goes up half of us crack our voices and beat our hands on the counter down in Eph Wiles' grocery store. If it goes down the other half of us obliges. But we are always angry. Always vociferating and swearing and calling names.

I wonder if the rest of the world is that way? Or are we just a miserable, bad-tempered little fief of a town?

Two years ago a poor-natured, red-eyed, bent-legged imitation of a human being kept chickens next door to me, J. P. relates, in the Kansas City Star. They did not do my roses and other flowering shrubs any good. He was within his rights in keeping chickens, of course. I am a reasonable man and I would be the first to admit that. I was also within my rights to keep an acre and a half and what an acre and a half can do to a hen must be seen to be appreciated. Our language over the back fence appalled me after I cooled down. Maybe it appalled the other fellow. Anyhow he came to me in my office one day.

"Let's talk it over," he said. "I don't want to be on bad terms with a neighbor and I do not mean the names I called you, and as for the hens I'll pop 'em in the pot."

It's a queer thing, but from being ready to hit him with an ax I softened up right away. We reached a compromise and I'll not tell what it was; the secret of how to keep the peace between roses and hens should be salable—and we have been friends and our wives have been friends ever since.

Both of us had been within our rights, of course. But it is better to be friends.

"Black Ox" Superstition

In the olden days a black ox was sacrificed to Pluto, the infernal god, as a white was to Jupiter. Hence black ox came to signify misfortune, sorrow or adversity. To have the black ox tread on one's feet, means to be visited by death, or to know the meaning of sorrow.—Fathinder Magazine.

The British meteorological office has collected much data on thunderstorms, and in its recent report stated that thunderstorms occur about once in ten years at the poles. In Java, on the other hand, they occur on an average of 223 days of the year. About 1,000 occur annually throughout the world.

Metal Flowers for Coat or Heavy Street Dress

Metal flowers form a new ornament for the coat or heavy street dress. These roses are of golden brown tones, and add chic to milady's garment.

Metallic Cloth Vogue Reaches Accessories

The newest brassieres are elaborate fancies, made of many different materials, some of them far from practical. All-over embroideries and laces have been long used. Now they are shown in silk, satin, crepe, even chiffon, finely plaited, with now and then conspicuous embroidery or hand-painting. The metallic cloth vogue seems to have penetrated to these most intimate accessories, for the loveliest of brassieres are made of gold and silver lace, in metal brocade and metal lace. One of cloth of gold, slightly gathered in front and at the sides and finished with bright gilt lace, is extreme, but intriguing.

The ensemble idea, too, has penetrated to these undergarments. In the latest suits of lingerie the brassiere is matched by the girdle and the garters. Sometimes the whole paraphernalia is done in one scheme of material, color and manner of ornamentation. Linen and muslin are rare and frills and furbelows nonexistent. The usual materials are chiffon, voile, marquisette and crepe. A few extravagant examples of underthings are hand-painted, lace trimmed and some are all lace.

Models on Lines of Spanish Dance Frock

The present season is not dominated by any particular period in fashions. Here and there one finds a hint of Persia in the graceful flare of a tunic, or a suggestion of China in the cut of the sleeves and bit of decorative embroidery. The geometric designs which give such a new and different aspect to certain of the smartest frocks reveal quite clearly the influence of the modernistic trend. In the frocks chosen by a few of the debutantes, noted for the picturesque quality of their costumes, the silhouette and colors have been inspired by the dress of a Spanish dancer.

It takes a distinct and rather rare type to wear a period frock, but when it is becoming there are few costumes more charming.

A new fashion that has just been introduced and that is destined for great popularity is the dance frock of black tulle and lace, modeled on the lines of a Spanish dancer's frock and emphasizing its distinctiveness by bright red roses posed on shoulder or skirt.

Ensemble Is Offered in Velvet, Wool and Silk

In the fashions of winter the importance of the ensemble is evidenced by the varied interpretations of costumes of this type which are shown by couturiers of note.

Many ensembles both for day and evening wear are brought out in velvet, wool and silk. A significant feature in the new fashions is the prominent position accorded black, which for a short period has been rather cast in the shade by the dominance of brilliant shades.

In general, ensembles carried out in black have tunics or dresses fashioned of white or colored broche. When the frock is black, however, a lighter note is introduced by trimmings of a colored material or gold and silver. Occasionally metal embroidery is used with most effective results.

Novelties in Garters

Arriving From Paris

Since the round garter has come back into fashion a great variety of novelties of this sort are found in the shops. Hand-painted, lace frilled flower and feather trimmed garters are shown. Gilt or silver lace is gathered to form a ruffle at the lower edge of a garter on which is shirred gilt or silver gauze ribbon. An ornament of metal or one jewel-studded is among the novelties shown on some of these fancy garters. Some lovely buckles of real gold, set with stones, are presented with the latest things from Paris. The making of elaborate garters is simplified with the new elastic covered with fancy ribbon shirred and frilled, sold by the yard. Some of this garter material is exceedingly pretty.

Won't Face the Music

"You'd better be at home when heaven comes to see you," the preacher said to Brother Williams. "Not me," he replied. "If I know a few who'll be under the bed, or half-way up the chimney, I'll be ready to face the music."

NEED FOR SILENCE

The weary diner called the waiter to him and said: "It is generally considered improper to speak disrespectfully of one's elders?"

The waiter looked puzzled. "So they say, sir," he returned.

"Ah," said the diner, "then I must repress my feelings and be silent about this egg you have just brought me."

Reputation Disrespected

Emanuel Jackson, a male tender, appeared one morning on crutches. "Lawsy!" exclaimed a friend. "Ah, thought you was one of de bes' male banlers in de business."

"So Ah la," affirmed Emanuel proudly, "but we done got a mule in dis mornin' dat didn't know mas reputation."—Everybody's Magazine.

Breakfast Didn't Worry

"You don't mean to tell me married Elsie Spender?"

"But I do—I mean I did," replied the optimistic bridegroom.

"Why, your salary won't even buy her breakfast!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the optimist. "That's where I've got you. Elsie won't

Spanish Flyers Resume Flight

Madrid, Jan. 26—Commander Franco and his colleagues who hoped off Porto Prial at 8 o'clock this morning for Pernambuco are proceeding without difficulty, according to a radio message received here at 12:20 from the warship Blas Lezo.

Porto Prial, Cape Verde, Jan. 30.—The Spanish flyers resumed their flight to Buenos Aires today, hopping off at 8 o'clock this morning for Pernambuco, the longest leg of their journey.

The Spanish cruiser Blas Lezo steamed out of Porto Prial immediately after Commander Franco's plane had arisen from the water. A sister ship, the Alcedo, left early yesterday. Both ships are heading for Pernambuco on the course Franco is following.

Both vessels have on board fuel and airplane parts so that in the event of mishap Franco will be means of a radio message place himself at once in communication with a source of supply.

A throng crowded the harbor way to see the departure. As Franco alighted into the air, several cannons boomed and the spectators burst into cheers.

Those who get up in the world are those who get down to work.

Animals Get Good Food

Old and worn-out horses in London are bought by the managers of the zoo, made fat and sleek then slaughtered and fed to the animals, the number of horses thus disposed of last year being 410. And the walrus oil, one must have codfish, so nearly five tons were fed to them besides 40 tons of herring. While other articles of food for the animals included 14,000 lbs. of milk, 128 pounds of honey, 258 pounds of ants' eggs, 77 pounds of meal worms, 150 bunches of onions, 23,000 bananas, 343 gallons of fresh milk, the food bill for the year reaching $50,000. —Adventure Magazine.

Sediment Carried to Sea

It is generally believed that the amount of sediment carried down by the Mississippi river is greater than that of any other river in the United States. A vast amount of this sediment is brought into the Mississippi by the Missouri. It is estimated that a flood of 500,000 cubic feet per second carries into the Mississippi about 120 cubic yards of sediment per second, or more than 10,000,000 cubic yards per day. It is estimated that 400,000,000 cubic yards per annum are carried into the Mississippi from the Missouri and that approximately the same amount passes out into the Gulf.

Manual Training Work of Students

Specimens of Work of Kingston High School Receives Commendation—Students Pay for Material and Own Their Product.

Several specimens of the work being done in the woodworking department of the high school were on display in the offices of the board of education Friday evening. Before the meeting these specimens were examined by the members of the board who expressed themselves as much surprised by the excellent work which is being done. The work was selected from the several grades, some being of the first year pupils and some of the more advanced pupils.

The student is supervised by the manual training teacher but all of the work is done by the student. The material is supplied at cost to the student and when completed he pays for the materials used and the product is his property.

On display were two cedar chests of third year students which from a workmanship point of view could not be distinguished from the best factory made chest. These chests cost about $6, exclusive of the work, and retail for at least $25. One student whose talents run toward radio has made a portable radio case. This student, a first year pupil, has devised several clever ideas in the case and the cost of material was $2. Three bulletin boards for the high schools were displayed, costing 60 cents each. A piano bench with compartment for music cost the student $3.35. Other articles which displayed the ability of the students were book ends, a book trough, a kitchen stool and other articles.

Every article displayed the interest which every student must take in order to turn out such finely finished products.

Yet People Must Die

Funerals are a nuisance in New York city. In fact, a New York apartment dweller can hardly play a meaner trick on his family than to die. If he dies at home the body must be removed the first night after death occurs. If he dies outside the apartment his body cannot be brought home. Funerals must be held in a church or undertaker's parlor.—Copper's Weekly.

Women in Higher Posts

By allowing women to compete in the first-class examination of the British civil service, opportunities are now open to them to reach the highest positions in the government service. This means that women may become undersecretaries for war or for foreign affairs or other departments, posts that carry with them salaries ranging up to $15,000 a year.

Swiftest Elevators

The swiftest lifts, or elevators, in the world are said to be at the Savoy hotel, London. There are three in the clockroom which speed at the rate of nearly seventy miles an hour. When a button is pressed the lifts with their cargo of hats and coats are shot like a rocket to a room 100 feet above in a little more than one and one-half seconds.

ANCIENT EAR LORE FOUND IN HISTORY

Expressions That Go Back to Earliest Times.

It is an old saying that if your ears burn, people are talking about you. This is very old, for Pliny, the Roman philosopher who lost his life in the destruction of Pompeii, A. D. 79, wrote: "When our ears do glow and tingle, some do talk of us in our absence." In his charming comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing," act III, scene 1, Shakespeare makes the heroine, Beatrice, say to Ursula and Hero, who had been talking of her, "What fire is in my ears?"

"To set people by the ear," means to create ill-will among them; to set them quarreling, as metal pots clung together rattle against each other. "Walls have ears," means that what is uttered in secret may get abroad. Nowhere is this idea better expressed than in Ecclesiastes 10:20, which reads: "Curse not the king, no no in thy thought. . . for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter."

Chaucer, the Middle ages poet, and the father of English poetry, expressed the same idea in a somewhat different manner. In one of his Canterbury Tales he writes, "That field hath eyes (eyes), and the wood hath ears."

Then there is the expression which takes one back much farther than even the time of Pliny. It is this, "Mine ears have heard thee bored," meaning that thou has accepted me as thy bond-slave for life. If a Hebrew servant declined to go free after six years of service, the master was to bring him to the doorpost, and bore his ear through with an awl, in token of his voluntary servitude, which continued during the remainder of the servant's life. Exodus 21:1-6.

The French have a saying which may be translated, "To send one away with a flea in his ear," meaning to send one away after giving one a good scolding, giving him through the ears or hearing something serious to think about so that he may correct his ways.

Blue Glass and "Colds"

Lord Clifford of Chudleigh, who for many years has been studying the action of colored light upon the growth of vegetables, thinks that colors may be used to cure diseases. One shade of red, he says, has a pronounced effect on cases of blood poisoning, while ultra-violet produces a fermentation in the body which reduces hardness of tissue. In all his "cures" exposure of the body to the particular ray of colored light is what is supposed to do the trick. A particular shade of violet, he says, causes the growth of veins. Indigo produces hydrocarbons and body tissues. A shade of blue causes muscular growth. Green induces fat and yellow restores the nerves. But, of course, Lord Clifford makes clear, great care must be taken that only the right shade of each color is used—otherwise opposite results may be obtained. Lord Clifford even went so far as to suggest that "colds" might be cured by the wearing of blue glasses.

Columbus Records

The Spanish government has decided to purchase the great collection of Christopher Columbus' archives which has been in the possession of the Duke of Veragua, a direct descendant of the great discoverer. There are in this collection 97 documents pertaining to Columbus and his voyages besides considerable other material of great interest. These are letters of Ferdinand and Isabella and the amount paid in aid to have been $215,000. The material will be taken to Seville and will be placed on exhibition at the exposition which will be held in that city in 1927.

Quickly Became Popular

Peaches were grown in the East in very early times, and the first seen in England were brought there in 1592 from Persia. The peach plant was first cultivated in England for its fruit so to be used as food by Mr. Myall, of Farnham, about 1700. It was common general use.
